Fulbright's Diplomacy Rap Stirs Debate

Dirksen Doubts Dominican Crisis Bungled by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and Democratic Sen. George A. Smathers challenged today Sen. J. W. Fulbright's contention that the Johnson administration bungled the Dominican crisis.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told the Senate Wednesday President Johnson was given "unsound advice" and that fear of a Communist takeover in Santo Domingo was based on misinformation and on "exaggerated estimates of Communist influence."

The Arkansas Democrat said "the danger to American lives was more a pretext than a reason for the massive United States intervention." He said, "In their panic lest the Dominican Republic become another Cuba, some of our officials seem to have forgotten that virtually all reform movements attract some Communist support."

Fulbright said Johnson, on the basis of the information and counsel he received, could hardly have acted other than he did. The senator said he had no objection to sending a modest contingent of U.S. troops to Santo Domingo to save American lives, but claimed there was "over action" by the administration in the dispatch of 22,000 men.

In a joint interview Dirksen and Smathers, secretary of the Democratic conference, disagreed with Fulbright's interpretation of the situation. Like Fulbright, they attended a White House meeting the night Johnson made his decision to send in troops.

Dirksen said he agreed with Johnson's decision then "and I agree with it now."

"A good many people had already been killed in Santo Domingo," Dirksen said. "The Communists were building up their strength. The country could have been torn apart. The President had to act."

Smathers said those at the White House meeting were told (Continued on Page 16)

10 Youths Slated For Hearings in Hamilton Shooting

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Police say 10 youths aged 15 to 17 will be cited to Juvenile Court as the result of last weekend's disturbances during which a high school football player was shot and wounded.

Raymond Wyatt, 18, Hamilton, has been bound over to the Butler County Grand Jury on a shooting to wound charge as a result of the incident. He has pleaded innocent.

Police Sgt. John Boyle said there were 24 youths on the scene of the shooting Friday night after the Hamilton Garfield-Colerain football game. He said 13 of them were with Wyatt and seven with Ronald Sutton, 17, the Garfield co-captain who was hit by shotgun pellets.

Wyatt is not enrolled in school. Sutton was not seriously hurt.

Puddles on Barbershop Floor Are Beatle Tears

NEW YORK (AP) — Those puddles on the barber shop floor are the tears shed by America's youth forced to cut their locks as the price of education.

Boys' Beatle-like tresses grown long with the summer days fell into disfavor with the opening of schools across the country.

Bizarre makeup is being scrubbed from the faces of girls, and some school principals are carrying around rulers to see that hemlines don't show

CONSTITUTION WEEK — Tomorrow begins the observance of National Constitution Week. Locally, a proclamation was signed by Mayor Ben H. Gordon and all residents have been urged to display the American Flag throughout the week. Promoter of the local observance is the Pickaway Plains Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Lawyer Seeks Race Peace, Must Leave Hometown

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — An attorney who tried to help solve American racial problems has sent his wife and five children to Atlanta because of threats and harassment and is getting out of town himself.

"There's no reason to stay," said attorney Warren Fortson, 37, brother of Georgia's secretary of state, Ben W. Fortson Jr. "My law practice has come to a screeching halt."

The former Marine said Wednesday he knew he was going to have to leave when he advocated formation of a biracial commission during the height of recent racial demonstrations in this south Georgia city.

"It was just like getting into a canoe in the Colorado River," he said. "Once you're committed to the rapids there's nothing you can do but ride them out."

Then, when the demonstrations subsided, Fortson said, "the freeze set in."

His wife, Betty, went to a meeting of the Junior League, he said, and "when she walked in, it was just like she was invisible. Nobody saw her."

Officially, Fortson remained attorney for Sumter County, but he said it was in name only. "The county has hired another firm to do its work. They don't come to me any more."

In addition, the attorney was not re-elected as a Sunday School teacher at the First Methodist Church.

His pastor, the Rev. Vernard Robertson, declined comment when told Fortson was leaving town. Local officials also refused to comment.

The attorney said he was leaving Americus as soon as he closes his law office. "I'm not sure where we will live, whether it will be in Atlanta or someplace else. But I had to get my family out of Americus."

Fortson said telephone threats and harassments were aimed at making existence unhappy for himself and his family but that there had been no direct threats on his life.

His wife said in Atlanta, "it just wasn't worth it any more. It's just like closing a door."

State Board of Education 'Racism' Hit

CLEVELAND (AP)—In a telegram to President Johnson, a Negro member of the Ohio Board of Education has asked that payments of federal education funds to Ohio be stopped because of what he calls discrimination.

The complaint came Wednesday from former state representative Chester K. Gillespie, who said discrimination in hiring practices at the Columbus Office of Ohio's Department of Education "is total, complete, brutal and sickening."

Gillespie, who said he made a careful check in Columbus two days ago, urged Johnson to stop funds to Ohio until after an investigation of his charges.

The school board member said in his telegram that he did not find "one nonwhite employee, not even a clerk, stenographer, messenger or porter," employed at the main office in Columbus.

In reply to Gillespie's accusations, Dr. Edward E. Holt, state superintendent of public instruction, said, "At the moment I can't give you the exact number, but I am sure there are nonwhites."

LBJ Restates Strong U.S. Backing of U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson restated today strong American support for United Nations efforts to end the India-Pakistan conflict.

In an address prepared for judges and lawyers from 100 countries attending the Washington World Conference on World Peace Through Law, Johnson said:

"Central to the hope of world peace through law is the United Nations. . . . I hope we can strengthen the United Nations, not simply as a forum for debate but as an arena for the solution of disputes. . . . And my country will fully support the efforts of the secretary-general to bring peace between the great nations of India and Pakistan."

This was the only reference in Johnson's prepared text to the latest Asian conflict. He made no mention of a suggestion Wednesday by President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan that the United States assume a larger role in trying to end fighting over Kashmir.

While the administration has not ruled out possible direct American efforts to promote a Pakistan-India settlement, the immediate response to Ayub's statement was to reaffirm support of U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant's mediation attempts — and to gather more information about the private thinking reflected in Ayub's public statement.

Johnson's address, inspirational in tone, dealt only fleetingly with specific trouble spots. There was no direct mention of Viet Nam, for instance, although Johnson previously had invited U.N. efforts to promote (Continued on Page Two)

Pope's Visit to U.S. To Last for 13 Hours

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul's Oct. 4 visit to New York will last about 13 hours, the Vatican announced today.

After delivering a peace message to the U.N. General Assembly the Pope will meet with all delegates, spending nearly 2½ hours in U.N. headquarters.

The program made no mention of a meeting with President Johnson, who will be in New York at the same time. There has been speculation, however, that the two might meet informally.

A group of Soviet scientists proposed a weather observatory on the moon to watch both the earth and sun.

Other Russians suggested an astronomical telescope on the moon for clearer observation of the stars.

The principal of a Little Rock, Ark., high school grabbed the problem by the forelock. Boys were told to abandon their Beatle cuts or show up for classes with hair ribbons. They got their hair cut.

After school officials in Fairfax County, Va., ruled that long hair was out, 20 students at Thomas Jefferson High School got haircuts before classes the next day.

Barbers at a shop near the school reported some of the boys cried when their hair was cut off.

But a dozen students picketed the school. One sign read, "Do you have to be bald for an education?" Said another: "At $1.75 who can afford haircuts?"

Many of the problems of girls' dresses may be taken care of by the boys. Said Steve Seymour, 18, a senior at Raleigh, N.C., "some dresses are kinda sickening when they come above the knee."

Both Assembly Houses Face Reapportioning

U.S. Envoy Is Cheered By Soviet Cooperation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said today his expectations for the coming U.N. General Assembly have been reinforced by U.S.-Soviet cooperation in trying to halt the war between India and Pakistan.

The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations said in an interview that the assembly's 20th session, opening next Tuesday, faces difficulties, but he declared: "I am optimistic."

He made these other major points:

The work of the 114-nation assembly will not be affected by the fighting in Viet Nam.

The United States continues to command majority support on major issues despite the flood of new Asian and African members into the world organization.

Settlement of disputes such as that between India and Pakistan takes time and patience. The American people must be patient if there are setbacks.

Red China is keeping itself out of the United Nations by its attitude of belligerence and there is no evidence of any change for the better.

Goldberg was interviewed in the 11th floor office of the U.S. mission, overlooking U.N. headquarters. He relaxed in his favorite rocking chair, which he prefers to the executive desk chair used by his predecessor, Adlai E. Stevenson.

Asked about the apparent deterioration of U.S.-Soviet relations over Viet Nam, the Dominican Republic and U.N. financing, he said that recent Security Council meetings on the Indian-Pakistani war had produced "a very dramatic example of cooperation and unanimity."

And, he said, the United States and the Soviet Union had acted together "without any evidence of cold-war confrontation."

"This serves to reinforce my hope and expectation that, despite all difficulties, we will make progress here at the 20th assembly."

Goldberg, September president of the Security Council, declined to speculate on what steps the 11-nation body would take to follow up the apparent failure of Secretary-General U. Thant's peace mission to Rangoon and New Delhi.

"I know," he said, "from a long 25 years of experience that a mediator in disputes of much less consequence does not ordinarily come out with a solution in a few days time."

The security council will meet Friday to consider Thant's report.

Goldberg was asked about the reluctance of the United States to have the council debate the Viet Nam question.

"We have never excluded Security Council consideration of Viet Nam," he said. "Rather, we have consulted with our colleagues at the United Nations here, and it has been a rather general point of view that the nature of the Viet Nam problem is such that a public confrontation would not lead to progress towards a solution."

He said it was a misconception, anyway, to believe that the U.N. Charter provided no ways to resolve disputes except by council debates.

"The charter in its various provisions calls for conciliation, mediation, quiet diplomacy," he said, "and this is what the United Nations is engaged in."

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52 bombers made their first raid into the Mekong south of Saigon today, striking a suspected Red target 90 miles below the capital. U.S. military authorities said.

The raid over Vinh Binh Province was the 25th reported made by the jets of the Strategic Air Command against targets in Viet Nam.

The other raids have been carried out north of Saigon mostly in one D, long a Communist stronghold, and in the Ben Cat area a few miles north of the capital.

On the ground U.S. and allied troops ran into sniper and mortar fire as they tried to clear the Viet Cong from thick jungle near Ben Cat. Vietnamese paratroopers, joined by U.S., Australian and New Zealand troops have not yet made major contact with the elusive guerrillas, a spokesman said.

Australian and New Zealand troops suffered light losses in the jungle probe near Ben Cat, about 30 miles north of Saigon in Binh Duong Province, but no U.S. casualties were reported, he said.

A U.S. patrol came under Viet Cong fire and ordered the guerrillas out of their underground bunkers. When they refused, a grenade was tossed into one opening. A newsman said women and children were among the casualties resulting from the grenade explosion.

They've created a traffic problem along Route 116 and at its junction with Route 112 which cuts into the mountains through Kinsman's Trench.

The trouble is that motorists see the moose and stop to satisfy their curiosity.

The members of this moose family are just as curious as people — so they come out to the pavement to look them over. Then nothing moves until the moose are satisfied, or get hungry and go back to grazing along the roadside or in pastures or woods near town.

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Authorities continued a house-to-house search today for bodies in eastern New Orleans as flood waters from Hurricane Betsy — which unleashed its fury a week ago — slowly receded.

A similar operation was under way in neighboring St. Bernard Parish, where 3 to 4 feet of water remained in some low-lying sections.

Police sealed off a 300-square block area after Dr. Rodney Jung, city health officer, said it was necessary because "conditions have deteriorated to an alarming degree."

A nauseating stench permeated the area, which contained green scum, floating garbage and hundreds of animal carcasses.

Communications with the devastated regions of lower Plaquemines Parish, 60 miles down the Mississippi River from New Orleans, remained out and there

Malcontent Is Seen Here

District Senators 'Neglect' Circleville

A Federal tribunal is looking into plans for reapportioning houses of Ohio's General Assembly which would effect Pickaway County's representation both in the House and Senate.

The three-judge court called today for the reapportionment plans bringing the Senate into panel's deliberations for the first time.

An order filed in U. S. District Court gives all parties in three cases until Oct. 15 to submit reapportionment proposals to bring representation in the House and Senate in line with "one man, one vote decision."

The addition of the Senate resulted from a case filed last July in Dayton by Clarence Blosser of Logan, who contended the upper chamber—as well as the House — is malapportioned.

Judge Paul C. Weick of the U. S. 6th District Court of Appeals, Akron, heads the federal panel. He said it was decided to review the Blosser case along with two others seeking redistricting of the House to take a close look "at the entire legislature."

"We don't want to do a piecemeal job," Judge Weick said. Blosser earlier filed a motion to intervene in the case of James D. Nolan, Cleveland, vs. Gov. James A. Rhodes, in which Nolan sought reapportionment of the House only.

The motion was rejected by the panel. Weick said the reason it was turned down was because "parties in the Nolan case conceded the Senate was all right. There was no reason to include the Senate in that case."

But Blosser has not been alone in objecting to the state senatorial districting setup.

Pickaway County, for instance, has been the source of some malcontent. It is linked with Franklin County to make up the 10th District. Pickaway has a population of nearly 40,000 while Franklin has more than 10 times that many.

Some Pickaway Countians contend that the district's two senators "invariably come from Columbus and do not even bother to campaign in the Circleville (Continued on Page 2)

18-Inch Snow Falls In Montana Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wintry weather, with snow, cold and blustery northerly winds, hit areas in Montana today and swept into the western Dakotas and Wyoming.

Temperatures dropped into the 20s across much of Montana and snow measured 18 inches on the 7,000-foot Big Mountain north of White Fish. The Weather Bureau issued freeze warnings and advisories to cattle-men to most of Northern Plains and the northern and central Rockies.

The late summer cold and snow damaged crops in much of the state where rains have delayed the grain harvest. Most of the major mountain passes in Montana were snowy and slick for the first time this season.

The other raids have been carried out north of Saigon mostly in one D, long a Communist stronghold, and in the Ben Cat area a few miles north of the capital.

On the ground U.S. and allied troops ran into sniper and mortar fire as they tried to clear the Viet Cong from thick jungle near Ben Cat. Vietnamese paratroopers, joined by U.S., Australian and New Zealand troops have not yet made major contact with the elusive guerrillas, a spokesman said.

Australian and New Zealand troops suffered light losses in the jungle probe near Ben Cat, about 30 miles north of Saigon in Binh Duong Province, but no U.S. casualties were reported, he said.

A U.S. patrol came under Viet Cong fire and ordered the guerrillas out of their underground bunkers. When they refused, a grenade was tossed into one opening. A newsman said women and children were among the casualties resulting from the grenade explosion.

Third Well Gives Circleville Wealthy City Water Supply

The City of Circleville now has three sources of water supply, all capable of supplying the current needs of the city.

Irvin Leist has reported a second well at the modern water plant has been drilled. Approximately 135-feet deep, the well is capable of producing nearly 2½ million gallons of water a day.

At peak use, the city now consumes approximately 1.2 million gallons a day.

With the drilling of the new well, the city has two wells at the new plant in addition to the well located at the old water plant.

THE TOP capacity of the new plant is 2.6 million gallons per day.

The new well is expected to be operational within four months.

A test pump yesterday operated for a 24 hour period, pumping 1,700 gallons per minute. Frederic Boger, project engineer for Burgess and Niple, reported there was little change in the water level in the well during the testing operation.

Central Ohio Klan Rally Is Planned

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ku Klux Klansmen have announced plans for a Central Ohio Rally Sept. 25-26 but have not disclosed the site.

Spokesmen for the United Klans of America said Wednesday the principal speaker will be their imperial wizard, Robert Stehli.

Presumably, the rally will be outside Columbus because of a municipal ban against night fire displays. One Ohio Klan leader, Flynn Harvey of Columbus, told a Columbus television station it will be in northern Franklin County.

The National Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, rival to the United Klans group, is holding a rally Saturday in Lodi, Ohio, and there was a report Wednesday that the organization also plans a Central Ohio rally on the Sept. 25-26 weekend.

Pretrial Data Studied by News Media

CLEVELAND (AP) — Representatives of the news media, bar associations and law enforcement agencies meet here today to discuss pretrial publicity given criminal cases.

Pretrial news releases have stirred debate since the Warren Commission contended news media flooded the public with confusing information following the assassination of President Kennedy.

Since the last bar-press session in April, called by the Ohio Bar's Criminal Committee, Ohio lawyers have been warned not to participate in publicity on pending cases.

The bar's Legal Ethics and Professional Conduct Committee warned that canon 20—the rule that prohibits lawyers from participating in pretrial publicity—would be strictly enforced.

The Ohio Newspaper Association feels that each newspaper should govern itself in regard to pretrial information and has objected to the drafting of any code to govern newspapers in the matter.

"There are those who say the rule of law is a fruitless and Utopian dream," said Johnson. "It is true that, if it comes, it will come slowly. . . But to deny the possibility is to deny peace itself."

In a more hopeful vein, he said: "I think we may be evolving a world consensus on which law can stand. The mass of mankind is slowly realizing the dangers of conflict and the futility of war."

Johnson suggested that greater acceptance of the idea of a global rule of law — and ultimate hopes for peace — would be strengthened a thousandfold.

Saying international law hitherto had been concerned primarily with relations among nations, Johnson declared:

"In pursuit of justice, it must now concern itself more than in the past with the welfare of people."

"I look forward to the day when the relief of hunger and misery and ignorance — in all parts of the world — will be fixed in legal obligation — as it now is in my own country."

False Change Artist Cited In City Court

Herman South, 46, Columbus, has been charged in Circleville Municipal Court with larceny by trick.

A "false change artist," he asked for a continuance of a court hearing and posted a $500 bond.

According to Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, South has a lengthy criminal record and is wanted by Chillicothe and Fairfield County authorities on similar charges.

He was arrested by Ohio State Highway Patrol early this morning on Route 104.

South was identified by Charles Gilt, local store owner. A similar incident recently occurred at the G. C. Murphy Co. However, an employee of that firm said South was not the man who made off with $20 after asking for change.

Presumably, the rally will be outside Columbus because of a municipal ban against night fire displays. One Ohio Klan leader, Flynn Harvey of Columbus, told a Columbus television station it will be in northern Franklin County.

The National Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, rival to the United Klans group, is holding a rally Saturday in Lodi, Ohio, and there was a report Wednesday that the organization also plans a Central Ohio rally on the Sept. 25-26 weekend.

Pretrial Data Studied by News Media

CLEVELAND (AP) — Representatives of the news media, bar associations and law enforcement agencies meet here today to discuss pretrial publicity given criminal cases.

Pretrial news releases have stirred debate since the Warren Commission contended news media flooded the public with confusing information following the assassination of President Kennedy.

Since the last bar-press session in April, called by the Ohio Bar's Criminal Committee, Ohio lawyers have been warned not to participate in publicity on pending cases.

The bar's Legal Ethics and Professional Conduct Committee warned that canon 20—the rule that prohibits lawyers from participating in pretrial publicity—would be strictly enforced.

The Ohio Newspaper Association feels that each newspaper should govern itself in regard to pretrial information and has objected to the drafting of any code to govern newspapers in the matter.

a settlement there, too.

"There are those who say the rule of law is a fruitless and Utopian dream," said Johnson. "It is true that, if it comes, it will come slowly. . . But to deny the possibility is to deny peace itself."

In a more hopeful vein, he said: "I think we may be evolving a world consensus on which law can stand. The mass of mankind is slowly realizing the dangers of conflict and the futility of war."

Johnson suggested that greater acceptance of the idea of a global rule of law — and ultimate hopes for peace — would be strengthened a thousandfold.

Saying international law hitherto had been concerned primarily with relations among nations, Johnson declared:

"In pursuit of justice, it must now concern itself more than in the past with the welfare of people."

"I look forward to the day when the relief of hunger and misery and ignorance — in all parts of the world — will be fixed in legal obligation — as it now is in my own country."

False Change Artist Cited In City Court

Herman South, 46, Columbus, has been charged in Circleville Municipal Court with larceny by trick.

A "false change artist," he asked for a continuance of a court hearing and posted a $500 bond.

According to Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, South has a lengthy criminal record and is wanted by Chillicothe and Fairfield County authorities on similar charges.

He was arrested by Ohio State Highway Patrol early this morning on Route 104.

South was identified by Charles Glitt, local store owner. A similar incident recently occurred at the G. C. Murphy Co. However, an employee of that firm said South was not the man who made off with $20 after asking for change.

GI Life Insurance Deal OK'd by House Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Veterans Affairs Committee has approved a bill that would allow members of the armed forces to buy a $10,000 group life insurance policy for $2 a month.

The insurance, provided by private companies, could be continued when the servicemen return to civilian life and without a medical examination. No figures were given on the after-service rates.

Poker-Playing Friends Hail Success of Playwright

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When "The Subject Was Roses" opened at the Huntington Hartford Theater this week, there was a special corps of enthusiasts: Frank Gilroy's fellow poker players.

All of them are in show business — writers, actors, directors, producers. They played poker every Wednesday night during the five years Gilroy lived here and worked in the movie and television jungle.

During that time the writer was moonlighting on a play script, turning it out in a realtor's office near his home in the Pacific Palisades. When he couldn't find backers foolishly enough to finance the play, Gilroy's poker pals contributed to the kitty.

"Most of them gave me $1,000 without even reading the play and wrote it off as a loss," said the still astounded playwright.

The poker players had good reason to doubt their investments. "The Subject Was Roses" was Broadway's Cinderella story of the year — and perhaps any year since "Abie's Irish Rose" was an ingenue.

Gilroy's struggle to get his play produced was remarkable enough to warrant a book in itself — which indeed he wrote as "About Those Roses."

Even after the play finally opened on Broadway, it seemed destined for quick death. Only the transfusion of another $10,000 to its $50,000 budget and financial privations of all concerned allowed it to survive through losing weeks.

Survive it did, with glorious results. Last spring the play was sprinkled with the Drama Critics award, the Tony and the Pulitzer Prize, making it the fifth play to win the triple crown.

Gilroy, 38, is a hard worker with an admitted compulsion to write. He knows the folly of trying to do so in a household of growing youngsters. Wherever he writes — and now it's in Goshen, N.Y. — he rents a bare office which he furnishes with little more than chair, typewriter and table.

"I'm primarily a morning worker, but I write no set amount of time," he remarked. "The harder it goes, the longer I write; my family knows I've had a bad day if I arrive home late. If the work is going well, I quit early. That's so it will be easy to start the next day."

Tiny Measurements Are Made by Laser

LONDON (AP) — British scientists say they have developed a machine that uses a Laser beam to measure accurately to a few million millionth (trillionths) of an inch.

The National Physical Laboratory at Teddington near London, where the Laser machine was built, said it will be used to check movement standards in machine and automatic tools.

A Laser is an intense beam of light of precisely known wave length.

Church Choir Voice Stilled By Viet Nam Enemy Bullet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A voice from Viet Nam haunts the West Park Methodist Church here.

The mellow voice of a young soloist, Andrew Hinderman, who left the choir loft to join the Marines, has been stilled by a Viet Cong bullet.

Hinderman's tenor solos no longer will echo through the church, but for his parents, the memory of their son's melodies will linger forever.

"We always told him that God was with him and would see him through the war," the 21-year-old Marine's father, Albert said. "Now there's only one way we can look at it. We figure it was God's will to take Andrew."

The father is a longtime member of the choir and his wife has been organist for 27 years. "He (Andrew) sang in the choir with me," Albert said.

Andrew was two weeks old when his father carried him into the church for the first time. "From then on, Andrew went every Sunday," the father recalled.

Hinderman said his son was able to attend church in Viet Nam just once since his arrival in June. "It sure made me feel good," Andrew wrote.

But then it was back to the war. "He never seemed to complain, though, and never wrote home finding fault," the father said.

"I don't know how I would stand it if it wasn't for my prayers and my thoughts of home," a letter said.

In his final letter, dated Sept. 10, he wrote, "you don't know how wonderful a sunrise is to me now. It means another night of a possible death has passed." That night he went on patrol and was killed.

STONEROCK'S TV and APPLIANCES

124 E. MAIN ST. CIRCLEVILLE GR 4-4756

Stresa, Italy — Denison Kitchel and W. J. Baroud turned up at the Mont Pelerin Society convocation of economists dedicated to the cause of liberty to explain their own Free Society Association "study group" which they have founded in America with the blessing of Barry Goldwater. The French, German, English, Luxembourgian, Japanese, and Indian economists listened respectfully along with their American colleagues, but what they made of it must have been slightly confused by the mystification which some of them still express over the figure of Goldwater himself.

The Mont Pelerin group is dedicated to the cause of freedom from stifling economic controls in all countries. But the criticisms of "Great Society" type controls offered by some of the French and English economists have tended here to move within a narrow range. Denison Kitchel's pitch for a return to the tenets of the classical liberalism of the Nineteenth Century certainly got across with the Europeans in the Mont Pelerin group as an objective for the long term, but their own contributions to the discussions generally stressed amelioration rather than outright abolition of the Welfare State. The papers read on the hopes for liberalization in the Communist states of eastern Europe and the Balkans, not to speak of Russia itself, expressed no great hope for anything more than the most superficial changes. And so far as western Europe is concerned, the accent was on the mitigation of what the French call "dirigisme." The recent return of several national states to exchange controls had many of the European economists speculating rather ruefully on the chances for a quick spread of Mont Pelerin principles.

An economist from one of the smaller west European countries explained to me that Goldwater was thought to be "radical" by some of his French and British colleagues. But the "radicalism" charge seemed to have more to do with fears of atomic war than with anything strictly economic. With some inconsistency this economist wanted it clearly understood that the colleagues he presumed to speak for tend to resent America, not because it is too "tough" in its attitude toward the Communist threat, but because it is not tough enough.

I pressed him on the subject of the "common people," unlike the Leftist "establishment" which runs a good section of the press in Europe, think rather well of the United States for trying to stop the Communists in Asia. As for the "uncommon people," my friend said America rated low with them because they felt that they had been let down on many occasions by Washington. The French, he said, still recall with bitterness the late President Kennedy's stand on the Algerian question. Belgians are still miffed because of U. S.

participation in the UN war against Katanga in the Congo. Germans consider that we might have stopped the building of the Berlin Wall if we had only made a gesture in time with our tanks. So, now that we are encountering our troubles in Vietnam, these Europeans while sympathetic toward our soldiers as they suffer under the Southeast Asia monsoon, are perversely happy that we are getting our come-uppance for having let Europe down on all too many occasions. This is just human nature.

My friend hoped that the "next Republican nominee for President" would make "many trips" to Europe before campaigning at home, his theory being that the overseas "image" of an American presidential aspirant has a pronounced effect on the "fashionable" vote in the United States. He added that he hoped any Republican candidate would clearly dissociate himself from the American softness that let the Berlin wall go up without a real effort to stop it. On the other hand, since my friend believes that the Left "establishment" in Europe controls "image-making" his feeling that any such dissociation by an American would get through to the public may seem unrealistic.

Talking with European intellectuals is both a refreshing and a bewildering experience. It is refreshing because one quickly learns that the pontificating of some American commentators who assume that European thinkers are solidly for a defeatist sort of accommodation with the Communists is not based on an across-the-board investigation. It is bewildering because one is led into many a road that, in German, is "Sackgasse," or dead end.

Dear Abby: He's Overdoing It!

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I went on a two-week vacation trip. We didn't want to take our three kids because they are all under five and hard to handle, so we left them with my mother, who is a widow and has nothing to do anyway. We also have a dog, which we left in our back yard. It's fenced in and there is a dog house there in case the dog needs shelter. We asked mother to run over every day to feed the dog and give it fresh water, then we locked the house up tight.

Well, my mother got nosy and she got into the house somehow, gathered all the dirty clothes, washed and ironed them and laid them on the bed. Now I say if ever my wife had a right to get mad at my mother, it was right then. Our dirty clothes were none of my mother's business. We only asked her to keep the kids and feed the dog. I was as mad at her as my wife I wish you'd write something about nosy mothers who overdo the domestic bit. Thanks.

"NOSEY'S" SON
DEAR SON: A woman who would care for three hard-to-handle grandchildren under 5 years of age, and "run over" daily to feed a dog, is, in my book, an angel! Next time hire someone to do what your mother did out of the kindness of her heart and you won't have to worry about her "overdoing the domestic bit." P.S. Your wife was probably ashamed of having gone off and left soiled clothes behind, and her shame turned to anger when she learned that her negligence was no secret to your mother.

DEAR ABBY: In 1958 I started going around with a well-to-do married man who told me he had nothing in common with his wife any more. He said he loved me and if I would wait we would be married someday. I was married at the time and had a seven-year-old son. I gave up my husband and son to be available whenever this man wanted to see me.

All this time he told me we had to be careful not to be seen together because if his wife ever found out she could take him for every dime he had. I would cook dinner for him in my apartment and we never went any place.

Suddenly he quit coming around. I just learned that he is NOT married and never was. Tell me, Abby, what protection does a working woman, who can't afford to hire private detectives, have against a snake like this?

BETRAYED
DEAR BETRAYED: None—and the next time you're tempted to "go around" with a married man, find out if he's married — and then forget it.

DEAR ABBY: A few girls in the office in which I work, including myself, would like your opinion of the following.

Do you think it is right for an employer to expect an employee to lie for him? When he does not wish to be disturbed, or talk to someone or see someone, he asks us to say that he is "out."

Is there anything we can do about this? Naturally, an employee must follow orders, but this doesn't seem right.

GUILTY CONSCIENCE
DEAR GUILTY: Don't nitch the boss's orders. He has his reasons for being "out" and they should be good enough for you.

TOUR GARDEN — Visitors come frequently to see this beautiful Jackson Twp. garden of Harford Renick who plans, plants and maintains it singlehanded. Renick is starting with his visitors Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Crawford on a tour of the colorful garden. Crawford was at the Renick farm on business and returned the following Sunday to show his wife the garden.

Renick Garden Planned In 18th Century Concept

The Harford Renick garden in Jackson Twp. is 18th century-Virginia in concept. The Renick forebears migrated from the state of Virginia and they brought with them the garden ideal from their home state. And when Harford Renick and his sister, Dehl Renick, came to Ohio to live on the farm they had inherited the old garden outlines were still visible.

It's a patterned garden with built up beds and low dirt paths in between. Each bed is planted in one or two flowers with a low border plant to set off the design.

This is a big garden with thousands of beautifully grown plants. All are grown from seed by Harford Renick who at one time raised vegetables commercially. When he switched to flowers he had all the necessary equipment like cold frames and hot beds for raising plants from seeds. What's more he had the know-how.

It would take a millionaire to buy the thousands of annuals which Renick sets out in his garden each year. But year after year this gardener raises from seeds all the plants the garden requires.

HE MAINTAINS the garden too. A visitor recently asked if weeds did not diminish in a garden spot like his where they are pulled year after year. He laughed and said "Weeds are always a problem."

Some of the Renick combinations are marvelously effective. There is a long row of the new, rose-pink salvia, Evening Glow. It is bordered by white periwinkle. The heliotrope bed with its big heads of fragrant purple flowers is outlined with a new annual groundcover. This is a recent introduction of Park's, polygonum, Magic Carpet. This four-inch plant has tiny clover-like blossoms.

Harford Renick's not scared to try things. In front are two rectangular beds of gerbera sometimes known as Transvaal daisy. This is a glamor flower, a tender perennial. It is bordered by one of the dusty millers with deeply indented gray foliage.

He has a whole bed of penstemon, Sensation. This tricky plant is a spike form with flowers of brightest colors.

One of the most eye-catching beds of the lot is centered with deep red crested celosia outlined with white petunias. These in turn are bordered with violet petunias and edged with dwarf marigolds.

Harford Renick is well pleased with the new dwarf plants. These, of course, make fine edging plants.

STOVE POTS painted white and filled with pink begonias stand in various places. And the passageway between the summer kitchen and the house is lined with pink begonias and blue lobelia.

Does this intricate patterned garden have a back drop? Yes indeed! First there's the fence covered with blue morning glories. Beyond that one sees the pleasant Jackson Twp. countryside with its farmland and green trees.

The garden is past its prime now. Anyway Renick is so busy harvesting his melon crop he hasn't been out to the garden lately. Last week he picked, graded and took to market 125 bushels of melons. This will go on until the melon harvest is finished.

Each year more visitors come to see the Renick garden. Harford Renick says that its bloom peak is the last two weeks in July and the first two in September. Most local gardens are at their downhill worst at this particular season and garden hopping is at a standstill.

It is remarkable that one man can plan and maintain a garden like this. Back in Virginia there was a good deal of help around to keep those patterned gardens groomed. Harford Renick does it singlehanded. What's more he's not working himself to a thread. He's having fun.

Try This One: Sauerkraut Cake

Mrs. Galen Mowery, Jackson Twp., makes a sauerkraut cake that is delicious. The sauerkraut keeps it moist and the delighted consumers mistake the sauerkraut for shredded cocoanut.

To further mislead folks, Mrs. Mowery sprinkles shredded cocoanut over the top of the frosting. She rarely divulges the fact that it's a kraut cake. Everybody asks for more of "that cocoanut cake." How they laugh when they discover it's a kraut cake!

Here is the recipe: 2½ cups of cake flour sifted with 1 teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon soda and ¾ cup of cocoa. Set the dry ingredients aside while you cream together one stick of butter, 1½ cups white sugar. To this creamed mixture add three eggs one at a time beating vigorously. Also add ½ cup of drained sauerkraut stirring well.

To the creamed mixture add alternately 1 cup of milk mixed with 1 cup of water and the dry ingredients.

Bake in a sheet pan at 350 degrees. It takes about 25 minutes. When cake leaves the sides of the pan it is ready to remove from the oven. Use any caramel or chocolate frosting which you like. Sprinkle cocoanut over the top.

Just remember that by using kraut more often you'll be helping Gov. James Rhodes make Ohio the top kraut producing state in the nation.

Strange Cosmos May Be a Hybrid

Mrs. Fred Wagner, 447 E. Watt St., believes that she has a hybrid cosmos which is the result of the breeding of a corn flower and a cosmos. We went to see this curious flower and a few of her cosmos do indeed have a center which looks precisely like a cornflower.

There is, however, a crested cosmos variety which this flower also resembles. In the opinion of the garden editor it is this strain cropping out in Mrs. Wagner's cosmos rather than a union of two different species of flowers.

Corn flowers and cosmos are growing side by side in this flower bed. And it is within the realm of possibility that the flowers mixed.

Garden Gossip

There's great goings-on at the Rinehart place at 820 Atwater Ave. Mrs. M. S. Rinehart decided against a pool and switched to a fountain in her newly made garden. Last Wednesday Jack Goode of J. S. Goode Nursery was planting beautiful specimens of heavily berried pyrocantha.

And speaking of the Jack Goodes, Judy Goode, Mrs. Jack Goode, finished her course in botany at Ohio State University with flying colors. Judy has a degree in nursing from Ohio State. She said it was great fun going back to school although difficult to get in a school-going groove. She went five days a week.

Mrs. Paul Johnson, 584 Woodland Drive, has canned some 30 quarts of tomatoes. Their tomato crop has now passed its peak and she doesn't care a mite.

Mrs. Charles Flemming of near Five Points has had a busy September canning garden produce. In fact she's been so occupied with canning that she's scarcely had time to look at her flowers that include blue and white salvia, roses, petunias, dwarf snaps and seed dahlias.

Mrs. John Eshelman is freezing apple sauce for winter use. The Eshelman apple trees have an excellent crop each year. And Mrs. Eshelman cannot bear to let them go to waste. The Eshelmans live on N. Pickaway.

When Miss Bernice Allen left for Rome, Georgia, last week, she took small rooted plants of our pink sultanias for her apartment. Miss Allen teaches government and political economy at Shorter College in Rome.

Mrs. W. Emerson Downing, 214 E. Main St., is quite amused at the antics of her sunflowers. They grew to a great height and she thought they would never bloom. Now, however, they have all bloomed and are sporting seed disks some 15 or 16 inches in diameter.

snow-on-the-mountain has been in bloom for two months. This handsome annual is a self seeder and she's hoping to have more next summer.

Mrs. Downing has a rose bush well over a hundred years old. It was blooming profusely when she escorted me on a tour of her backyard. Her ivy encircled pool has quite a number of goldfish. She discovered a youngster—about one half inch long.

Mrs. William Defenbaugh, Atwater Ave., already has blooming chrysanthemums.

The garden editor attended a rose show for members of the Central Ohio Rose Society on Sept. 3. We were the guest of Mrs. Harry Montelius and Ruth Montelius. Other Circleville guests were Handy Hatfield and Mrs. Darrell Hatfield.

This rose society is made up of dedicated rose fanciers. It was most interesting to see exhibitors at work before the show grooming their specimens. And what roses!

Ruth Montelius exhibited some fine specimens. Her Sterling Silver took a third place in one class. This was the finest Sterling silver I had ever seen.

Mrs. Harry Montelius explained that Sterling Silver is a rose that does better in partial shade. In the sun its color is too faded.

After the show, Ruth gave me three lovely Sterling Silver roses with long stems. When I came home I added them to a mass arrangement I had of flowers in violet and blue shades. The effect was fantastic. Visitors would not believe the lovely lavender roses were real.

The Montelius gals say that members of the Central Ohio Rose Society are all expert growers and not too interested in arrangement making. They feel that Pickaway County arrangers might bring home trophies from the artistic division of the upcoming rose show.

Rose growers who want to compete will have tough competition. But if you are interested, Ruth Montelius will provide you with a schedule.

One of the roses to win the highest honor was a Peace rose. It was long stemmed with perfect foliage but considerably smaller than Peace roses are ordinarily.

I felt that so small a Peace rose should be penalized for size. Handy Hatfield reminded me that it probably had been. After all size in the scale of points only counts for ten points while form counts 25. I had to admit it was nearly a perfect rose.

One rose, not yet on the market, caused great excitement among the rosarians. They were busy jotting down the number which it now has instead of a name.

TOUR GARDEN — Visitors come frequently to see this beautiful Jackson Twp. garden of Harford Renick who plans, plants and maintains it singlehanded. Renick is starting with his visitors Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Crawford on a tour of the colorful garden. Crawford was at the Renick farm on business and returned the following Sunday to show his wife the garden.

Renick Garden Planned In 18th Century Concept

The Harford Renick garden in Jackson Twp. is 18th century-Virginia in concept. The Renick forebears migrated from the state of Virginia and they brought with them the garden ideal from their home state. And when Harford Renick and his sister, Dehl Renick, came to Ohio to live on the farm they had inherited the old garden outlines were still visible.

It's a patterned garden with built up beds and low dirt paths in between. Each bed is planted in one or two flowers with a low border plant to set off the design.

This is a big garden with thousands of beautifully grown plants. All are grown from seed by Harford Renick who at one time raised vegetables commercially. When he switched to flowers he had all the necessary equipment like cold frames and hot beds for raising plants from seeds. What's more he had the know-how.

It would take a millionaire to buy the thousands of annuals which Renick sets out in his garden each year. But year after year this gardener raises from seeds all the plants the garden requires.

HE MAINTAINS the garden too. A visitor recently asked if weeds did not diminish in a garden spot like his where they are pulled year after year. He laughed and said "Weeds are always a problem."

Some of the Renick combinations are marvelously effective. There is a long row of the new, rose-pink salvia, Evening Glow. It is bordered by white periwinkle. The heliotrope bed with its big heads of fragrant purple flowers is outlined with a new annual groundcover. This is a recent introduction of Park's, polygonum, Magic Carpet. This four-inch plant has tiny clover-like blossoms.

Harford Renick's not scared to try things. In front are two rectangular beds of gerbera sometimes known as Transvaal daisy. This is a glamor flower, a tender perennial. It is bordered by one of the dusty millers with deeply indented gray foliage.

He has a whole bed of pentstemon, Sensation. This tricky plant is a spike form with flowers of brightest colors.

DOORYARD GARDEN — At the 4-H and Grange Building at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds, Mrs. Herman Porter, chairman of the flower committee of the Monrovia Garden Club, stops to rest on the fence which encloses the dooryard garden. Bright annuals grow in profusion here and bloom all summer long. The members plant the annuals each spring. Quite a task!

Active Monrovia Have Many Community Projects

We are admonished in the Bible not to hide our light under a bushel. And the Monrovia Garden Club couldn't if it wanted to because their light happens to be flowers and plants they dispense in the community. A shining example of their light is the garden of annuals in front of the 4-H and Grange Building at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

We talked with the president, Mrs. Charles Fleming, and her flower chairman, Mrs. Herman Porter. This was towards the end of the county fair. We relaxed on the heavy fence in front of the garden. Every plant was blooming brightly.

According to these hard working garden club women each spring they plant annuals here. Yes, it's rather a real labor they admit. They bring flats of plants and start in digging until every inch of ground will be covered when the plants mature. Bill Cook, fair manager, until his recent resignation, mulched and watered the plants. Asters, snaps, marigolds, petunias and alliums all grow lustily here. Literally several hundred plants are provided by this club.

Assisting with the work this year were Mrs. Fleming, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Bruce Corcoran, Mrs. Shirley Anderson, Mrs. John Dick and Mrs. Clyde Michael. Mrs. Lewis Seymour, who is Mrs. Fleming's mother and happens to be 79 years old, was right in there pitching at planting time.

THE FAIRGROUNDS planting, however, is just one of their community projects. They helped with the plantings at four churches: Greenland, Five Points Methodist and Five Points Christian and Hebron Methodist.

They gave $50 to Westfall School for the redbud trees planted on the north side. They assisted with the planting at Monroe Twp. School. They refilled the boxes at Soldiers Monument at Five Points. Each spring the club plants annuals like petunias in these boxes.

The club gave plants to the Children's Home so that the youngsters could learn the pleasure of watching things grow.

Last spring they purchased

$800 worth of plants to sell so they could acquire funds for their interesting projects.

No sir, the Monrovia Garden Club is not hiding its light under a bushel. These are projects that have to be right out in the sunshine where everybody can see them grow.

Arranger To Lecture At Granville Meet

The Judges Council of Regions eight and nine of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs will have as featured speaker for their Oct. 14 meeting, Patricia Kroche of Florida. She is an author, lecturer and instructor associated with National Council.

Her topic is to be "Abstractions with Plants and Flowers". The meeting will be at 12 noon in Granville Inn, Granville. Interested arrangers may contact Mrs. Dorsey Bumgardner of Route 2, Circleville. Her telephone number is Granite 4-2946.

Only 200 reservations will be taken. The price is $4. This will include the luncheon, tips, and the lecture. Interested persons need not be OAGC members.

7th Annual Labor Day Pageant Held

After a weekend of teasing, the weatherman provided ideal conditions for the seventh annual water pageant held Labor Day at the Richard Jones farm in Salter Creek Twp.

Sixty swimmers participated in the event which was performed before a pondside audience of some 80 people.

The title of the show was "Captain Thunder and the Petticoat Pirates". The show told the story of the double-crossing Captain Thunder, leader of a pirate band during the 17th century.

The captain hid his treasure in a cave under Ra-hue the rain god, a deity worshipped by the island people. According to members of his pirate band the treasure would be safe there from the Petticoat Pirates who had successfully made away with Captain Thunder's wealth on more than one occasion. The female pirates appear and teach the islanders to swim. They also manage to steal Captain Thunder's treasure.

THE CAPTAIN forsakes his evil ways and marries the island queen. And one of his band, Yellow Belly, assumes leadership of the evil crew.

Members of the cast who had speaking parts were as follows: Captain Thunder, pirate and leader of the crew, Larry Stant; the Island Queen, Mrs. Joe Lafontaine; Wa-La, native witch doctor, Johnny Stant; Prudence, a Petticoat pirate, Lynette Justice; Charity, her pal, another Petticoat pirate, Nancy Wolford; Yellow Belly, one of the pirate band, Steve Jones; Blue Ear, another pirate and buddy of Yellow Belly, Tim Justice; Scarface, yet another pirate and friend of Yellow Belly, George Deihl.

Other characters include Pedro, the executioner, Jay Justice, Bulltail, the boatman, Mike Diehl and Nancy Fogler and Mary Brown, voo-doo chanters.

After the pageant a picnic was held in back of the Jones woods at the rifle range.

Television stations will be built in Riyadh and Jiddah, Saudi Arabia.

School Slated For Judges In October

The Ohio Council of National Accredited Amateur Flower Show Judges and Garden Club of Ohio are sponsoring an advanced refresher course for judges in Cleveland Oct. 21, 22, and 23. The school will be held at Higbee's downtown store.

Mrs. James R. Searles of Kirkwood, Mo., outstanding lecturer and garden author, will speak on "Horticulture Theory and Practice of Point Scoring." Chrysanthemums and rex begonias will be covered and point scored in the examination. In the afternoon of the first day, "Judging Ethics" will be discussed as well as "Exhibiting and Judging Horticulture."

On Oct. 22, the second day of the course, Mrs. E. F. Simpson, distinguished arranger and master judge will lecture on "Creativity in Space." Examinations will be held Saturday morning.

Headquarters will be at the Statler Hilton Hotel, Cleveland. Judges who plan to attend are to make reservations directly with the hotel.

ACCORDING to Mrs. Jack Blome, flower show schools chairman, those eligible to take the course for credit are judges whose certificate was issued at least two years ago. To receive credit judges must have judged six shows and exhibited five times.

Interested arrangers may attend the entire school or any of its lectures. However only qualified judges will receive credit.

Handy Hatfield, a daylily man, laughed and said rose fanciers were just like daylily people. They too jot down the number of an upcoming beauty.

Handy has given his daylily seeds the refrigerator treatment this year. He freezes them for ten days. When this is over they leap out of their dormancy and sprout quickly.

Free form arrangers have it made. Ruth Montelius was on the program to demonstrate the making of a free form design. She had saved her line material from the county fair flower show. All she had to do was stick three roses in the arrangement. This she did in a couple of seconds. The others worked for 20 minutes or so on theirs.

One demonstrator was a man. He was Virgil Jones, a shining light in the CORS for his arranging ability. He smoked a pipe while he methodically placed his plant material where he wanted it.

Mrs. Robert Zollinger emceed the program while the arrangers worked. We thought this was the ideal way to give a demonstration. So often garden club members get restless while the demonstrator works. It takes considerable practice to gab while you make a flower arrangement.

Our water pageants have something of a following. A few people have attended them all. Duke Albert and his wife, Ruth, come each year from Columbus. Duke says the King Arthur pageant was the funniest. Forrest Kreisel of Kingston was King Arthur. He sped a cross the pond in a motor boat. He wore a cloak of quilted scarlet.

That same year Paul Ford McGinnis took the part of Sir Lancelot. He was decked out in a World War I helmet that belonged to Buck Petty. He showed up riding horsback.

Dutch Woodgear, professional wrestler, was taken on by Carl Justice in one sequence at this pageant.

And Patty Strous won the distinction of being the only pageant participant ever to know her lines letter perfect. She took the part of Elaine the lily maid of Astolat.

Dick Davis, Herald staffer, directed the pageants for two years. How we did miss him this year! A gifted director... and one the kids liked very much.

One of the little things that happened was when Debbie Blome, dressed in a grass skirt coaxed a butterfly on to her lei. The butterfly, a monarch, really seemed to think he had discovered a necklace of flowers.

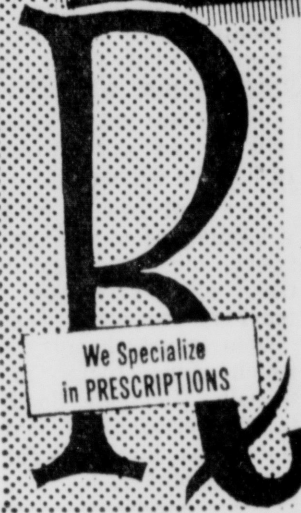

I had all seven grandchildren in the pageant. I had to cross my heart that I would not put Seth Oliver (6 weeks) in the pond. But he was in the procession of islanders.

Wonder what's happened to the blue lobelia that blooms in September along the roadsides. Ordinarily there's lots of it along our road. This year — none!

DOORYARD GARDEN — At the 4-H and Grange Building at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds, Mrs. Herman Porter, chairman of the flower committee of the Monrovia Garden Club, stops to rest on the fence which encloses the dooryard garden. Bright annuals grow in profusion here and bloom all summer long. The members plant the annuals each spring. Quite a task!

Active Monrovians Have Many Community Projects

We are admonished in the Bible not to hide our light under a bushel. And the Monrovia Garden Club couldn't if it wanted to because their light happens to be flowers and plants they dispense in the community. A shining example of their light is the garden of annuals in front of the 4-H and Grange Building at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

We talked with the president, Mrs. Charles Fleming, and her flower chairman, Mrs. Herman Porter. This was towards the end of the county fair. We relaxed on the heavy fence in front of the garden. Every plant was blooming brightly.

According to these hard working garden club women each spring they plant annuals here. Yes, it's rather real labor they admit. They bring flats of plants and start in digging until every inch of ground will be covered when the plants mature. Bill Cook, fair manager, until his recent resignation, mulched and watered the plants. Asters, snaps, marigolds, petunias and alliums all grow lustily here. Literally several hundred plants are provided by this club.

Assisting with the work this year were Mrs. Fleming, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Bruce Corcoran, Mrs. Shirley Anderson, Mrs. John Dick and Mrs. Clyde Michael. Mrs. Lewis Seymore, who is Mrs. Fleming's mother and happens to be 79 years old, was right in there pitching at planting time.

THE FAIRGROUNDS planting, however, is just one of their community projects. They helped with the plantings at four churches: Greenland, Five Points Methodist and Five Points Christian and Hebron Methodist.

They gave $50 to Westfall School for the redbud trees planted on the north side. They assisted with the planting at Monroe Twp. School. They refilled the boxes at Soldiers Monument at Five Points. Each spring the club plants annuals like petunias in these boxes.

The club gave plants to the Children's Home so that the youngsters could learn the pleasure of watching things grow.

Last spring they purchased

$800 worth of plants to sell so they could acquire funds for their interesting projects. No sir, the Monrovia Garden Club is not hiding its light under a bushel. These are projects that have to be right out in the sunshine where everybody can see them grow.

Hiring of Nun in Public School Faces Court Tests

FORT RECOVERY, Ohio (AP) — A suit challenging use of Roman Catholic nuns as public school teachers will be decided soon, but that decision probably will not be final.

Before the test case ends, the Ohio Supreme Court is expected to be asked to consider for the first time the constitutional question of nuns teaching in public schools.

Though nuns have been employed in some Ohio public schools for years, the practice was challenged only three years ago.

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe ruled in 1958 that school boards "may lawfully employ persons of any religious faith or of no faith to teach in public schools" so long as they are properly certified. Saxbe also ruled wearing of religious garb—such as a nun's habit, although he didn't specify this—is legal.

That ruling has the force of law until it is changed by a court.

A three-year-old suit filed by Jesse C. Moore, a Fort Recovery machine designer and inventor, seeks to change it.

Moore's suit against the South West Local School District contends the district's practices violate state and federal constitutions requiring separation of church and state.

He accused the board of segregating students in four elementary schools by religion and of allowing display of religious symbols in the schools.

The school board defends employment of nuns on grounds they are certified by the state board of education and therefore are authorized to teach in public schools. It denies any forced segregation by religion, contending parents are free to send their children to any school.

Since the suit was filed, cross-petitions, briefs and counter-briefs have been entered. Last Saturday, both sides presented oral arguments to Judge Fred Cramer of Butler County.

Cramer a Jewish judge from Southern Ohio, was named by the Ohio Supreme Court to hear the case after Mercer County Judge Paul Dull disqualified himself.

The opposing sides have a month before all final replies must be filed. Some time after that, Cramer will rule.

But both sides agree there will be an appeal, regardless of how he decides.

Any final decision could affect a number of smaller school districts, mostly in northwestern Ohio, which have used nuns as teachers for many years.

Ohio is not the only state in which nuns teach in public schools. Michigan, South Dakota, New Mexico and some other states also hire nuns for public school teaching.

Mariner 4 Continues To Send Out Signals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mariner 4, almost 182 million miles out in space, is still sending back useful signals, 500 hours beyond its designed lifetime.

NASA said Mariner 4 has traveled about 400 million miles since its launching last Nov. 28 and is more than 15 million miles beyond Mars.

City Swaps Fire Engine FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — The City Council has approved the swap of a 30-year-old fire engine for a road grader only 2½ years old. The swap was offered by Victor Palinzini of Rehoboth, who said: "I just like fire engines."

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — It was one of those times when nothing goes right. It began with an abortive raid on a Viet Cong stronghold and ended amid the burning wreckage of a crashed helicopter.

In between came 30 nightmare hours of hacking and marching through the jungle of Viet Nam's central highlands with one company of "Screaming Eagles" of the 1st Brigade of the 101st Airborne Division close to An Khe.

Hungry and thirsty, though drenched to the skin by blinding rainstorms, men of Bravo company gave uncomplaining testimony to the fighting spirit of their crack paratrooper outfit while breaking almost every rule in the manual of jungle warfare.

Training in the United States did not prepare them for impenetrable thorn thickets or spike-studded creepers that trip a man or slash at his face, hands and clothing. Before they came to Viet Nam five weeks ago, these men had been taught to fight in the desert.

"It's going to be one of those pick 'em up and lay 'em down footslogging infantry affairs," warned Lt. Col. Joseph B. Rogers of Fairfax, Va., as he outlined an operation to flush out and destroy Viet Cong guerrillas.

Bravo company, led by Capt. James Nichols of Clarksville, Tenn., had been assigned to act as the western side of a piston to drive the Viet Cong on to the guns of another company airlifted into the zone in helicopters.

Within minutes of starting their march at 1:45 a.m., Bravo company soldiers gave practical demonstrations of their inexperience in jungle fighting. Men talked, giving away their position; they moved bunched together, presenting a choice target for Viet Cong machine guns.

Later, they walked up the dry bed of a stream. Its steep banks would have given few any chance to escape an ambush.

By daybreak, the company still was a long way from its attack point, which it was due to reach before dawn. Artillery fire and strafing by helicopter gunships, scheduled to coincide with the advance, could be heard in the distance.

Bravo company then got lost. Colored smoke grenades were used to reveal the company's position for spotter aircraft which guided the troops out of the jungle.

Men also used jungle trails familiar to the Viet Cong. Two men were spiked by punji sticks—slices of needle-sharp bamboo planted by the Viet Cong. Hundreds of punji sticks, many of them smeared with filth to make a wound fester, had been left.

When Bravo company reached the suspect zone, four hours behind schedule, all Viet Cong had left. Soldiers burned bamboo huts hidden in the jungle, destroyed food caches and blew up underground bunkers.

At 3 p.m., the company set out for a helicopter landing zone 2½ miles away. Eleven hours and two driving rainstorms later, the company flopped exhausted on the trail, utterly lost.

No guards were posted and no defense perimeter was established. Radio contact had been blotted out. Men slept in their wet combat fatigues in the mud.

Lt. Philip Norman, a rangy, taciturn Texan who was graduated from Rice University, sent word to platoon commanders to keep half their men awake.

Then he organized a small squad to move forward to seek a clearing where a defense perimeter could be set up in case of an attack at dawn. Alternatively, he was trying to find the way to the landing zone. Several mortar bombs came whistling overhead and exploded harmlessly in the jungle.

Norman also re-established radio contact and asked the troops holding the landing zone to fire flare bombs. Several of these were invisible in the darkness of the jungle, where progress was cut by nightfall to 60 yards an hour from a daylight average of 300 yards.

Norman and his party reached their objective at 8:15 a.m. His men had been marching almost without a break for 30 hours.

The rest of the company emerged from the jungle an hour later. Most had slept until daylight. Despite the debacle, the physical condition of Bravo company and their high morale were evident.

Flying back to An Khe in the helicopter which brought "C" rations and water for Bravo company, this reporter and another newsman heard a sharp clunk from the engine department and a red light began glowing on the pilot's dashboard.

The roar of the helicopter's engine subsided. The aircraft began to drop fast from 1,500 feet. The pilot remained icy calm.

He switched the rotor blades to auto-rotation and the helicopter windmilled down. One of the machine gunners turned and said: "Don't worry."

With a great crash, the helicopter tore through the upper branches of some trees.

The pounding contact with the ground followed almost immediately. The fuselage canted to its left and trapped the pilot. A voice could be heard moaning: "I'm hurt. My leg, my leg."

Crewmen grabbed fire extinguisher. Soldiers appeared from nowhere. One pointed to the stricken copilot and yelled: "Get him out!"

Some tried to reach the copilot from the left side but were driven back by flames. Then a team of men pulled him free. They carried him to another helicopter which had landed in a nearby clearing. His back was fractured.

Helicopters flew the injured to An Khe's aid station. The two writers had cuts and bruises.

The school board defends employment of nuns on grounds they are certified by the state board of education and therefore are authorized to teach in public schools. It denies any forced segregation by religion, contending parents are free to send their children to any school.

Since the suit was filed, cross-petitions, briefs and counter-briefs have been entered. Last Saturday, both sides presented oral arguments to Judge Fred Cramer of Butler County.

Cramer a Jewish judge from Southern Ohio, was named by the Ohio Supreme Court to hear the case after Mercer County Judge Paul Dull disqualified himself.

The opposing sides have a month before all final replies must be filed. Some time after that, Cramer will rule.

But both sides agree there will be an appeal, regardless of how he decides.

Any final decision could affect a number of smaller school districts, mostly in northwestern Ohio, which have used nuns as teachers for many years.

Ohio is not the only state in which nuns teach in public schools. Michigan, South Dakota, New Mexico and some other states also hire nuns for public school teaching.

It Was Bad Day All Around for GI Unit

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — It was one of those times when nothing goes right. It began with an abortive raid on a Viet Cong stronghold and ended amid the burning wreckage of a crashed helicopter.

In between came 30 nightmare hours of hacking and marching through the jungle of Viet Nam's central highlands with one company of "Screaming Eagles" of the 1st Brigade of the 101st Airborne Division close to An Khe.

Hungry and thirsty, though drenched to the skin by blinding rainstorms, men of Bravo company gave uncomplaining testimony to the fighting spirit of their crack paratrooper outfit while breaking almost every rule in the manual of jungle warfare.

Training in the United States did not prepare them for impenetrable thorn thickets or spike-studded creepers that trip a man or slash at his face, hands and clothing. Before they came to Viet Nam five weeks ago, these men had been taught to fight in the desert.

"It's going to be one of those pick 'em up and lay 'em down footslogging infantry affairs," warned Lt. Col. Joseph B. Rogers of Fairfax, Va., as he outlined an operation to flush out and destroy Viet Cong guerrillas.

Bravo company, led by Capt. James Nichols of Clarksville, Tenn., had been assigned to act as the western side of a piston to drive the Viet Cong on to the guns of another company airlifted into the zone in helicopters.

Within minutes of starting their march at 1:45 a.m., Bravo company soldiers gave practical demonstrations of their inexperience in jungle fighting. Men talked, giving away their position; they moved bunched together, presenting a choice target for Viet Cong machine guns. Later, they walked up the dry bed of a stream. Its steep banks would have given few any chance to escape an ambush.

By daybreak, the company still was a long way from its attack point, which it was due to reach before dawn. Artillery fire and strafing by helicopter gunships, scheduled to coincide with the advance, could be heard in the distance.

Bravo company then got lost. Colored smoke grenades were used to reveal the company's position for spotter aircraft which guided the troops out of the jungle.

Men also used jungle trails familiar to the Viet Cong. Two men were spiked by punji sticks—slices of needle-sharp bamboo planted by the Viet Cong. Hundreds of punji sticks, many of them smeared with filth to make a wound fester, had been left.

When Bravo company reached the suspect zone, four hours behind schedule, all Viet Cong had left. Soldiers burned bamboo huts hidden in the jungle, destroyed food caches and blew up underground bunkers.

At 3 p.m., the company set out for a helicopter landing zone 2½ miles away. Eleven hours and two driving rainstorms later, the company flopped exhausted on the trail, utterly lost.

No guards were posted and no defense perimeter was established. Radio contact had been blotted out. Men slept in their wet combat fatigues in the mud.

Lt. Philip Norman, a rangy, taciturn Texan who was graduated from Rice University, sent word to platoon commanders to keep half their men awake.

Then he organized a small squad to move forward to seek a clearing where a defense perimeter could be set up in case of an attack at dawn. Alternatively, he was trying to find the way to the landing zone. Several mortar bombs came whistling overhead and exploded harmlessly in the jungle.

Norman also re-established radio contact and asked the troops holding the landing zone to fire flare bombs. Several of these were invisible in the darkness of the jungle, where progress was cut by nightfall to 60 yards an hour from a daylight average of 300 yards.

The rest of the company emerged from the jungle an hour later. Most had slept until daylight. Despite the debacle, the physical condition of Bravo company and their high morale were evident.

Flying back to An Khe in the helicopter which brought "C" rations and water for Bravo company, this reporter and another newsman heard a sharp clunk from the engine department and a red light began glowing on the pilot's dashboard.

The roar of the helicopter's engine subsided. The aircraft began to drop fast from 1,500 feet. The pilot remained icy calm.

He switched the rotor blades to auto-rotation and the helicopter windmilled down. One of the machine gunners turned and said: "Don't worry."

With a great crash, the helicopter tore through the upper branches of some trees.

The pounding contact with the ground followed almost immediately. The fuselage canted to its left and trapped the copilot. A voice could be heard moaning: "I'm hurt. My leg, my leg."

Crewmen grabbed fire extinguisher. Soldiers appeared from nowhere. One pointed to the stricken copilot and yelled: "Get him out!"

Some tried to reach the copilot from the left side but were driven back by flames. Then a team of men pulled him free. They carried him to another helicopter which had landed in a nearby clearing. His back was fractured.

Helicopters flew the injured to An Khe's aid station. The two writers had cuts and bruises.

Shriver Hunts Best of Aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — When you need a man to help create a new government agency, says Sargent Shriver, you should get a man who already has a job he doesn't want to leave.

You get the man excited about the new program, bring him to Washington, work him 12 to 16 hours a day in a crisis atmosphere, then, after a year or so, let him go back to the easier pace of private business or a college campus.

"With this kind of people, we don't need to worry about them trying to tell us what we want to hear," Shriver says. "We find out right away when something is wrong. They'd quit tomorrow if they thought we were going to stay wrong."

But that approach does make for a heavy personnel turnover be the Office of Economic Opportunity, here Shriver directs President Johnson's antipoverty campaign, just as it did in the Peace Corps which he organized and still heads.

Six senior officials either have left in recent days or soon will leave. At lower levels, there is a steady change as people go back to their regular jobs.

Congressional and other critics say this turnover is a sign of poor organization, inefficiency, bad morale.

"We had 150 per cent turnover in the first two years of the Peace Corps," says Shriver. "I'd rather have the best man available for the job for a year or so than a less qualified person permanently."

Although there is a strong measure of idealism in the programs he administers, Shriver is a tough realist who wants results, not moral victories.

Bill D. Moyers, former deputy Peace Corps director who now is White House press secretary, says Shriver "believes in creative tension, believes progress and tranquility are not good bedfellows."

Some people are driven away by the crisis atmosphere, the tension and Shriver's super-salesman approach, but most who work with him wind up as staunch admirers.

Nobody is hired at either agency for any responsible job without Shriver's okay. He often helps recruit the new employees. His first assignment in government was as a talent scout in the formation of the administration of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Subordinates often find Shriver may know some details of their jobs better than they do. "He does his homework," says Mary Ann Orlando, Shriver's administrative aide who has been with him since 1948.

He gets up about 6 a.m. During the school year, Shriver spends the early morning hours with his wife, the former Eunice Kennedy, sister of the late president, and their four children.

The work day begins when he steps into his car for the drive in from his home in nearby Maryland. "I get a good 40 minutes work done in the car," Shriver says. The day sometimes ends at midnight or later.

Three days a week, Shriver goes to the office of Economic Opportunity. The other two he is at the Peace Corps.

Normally, a staff conference is held at 9:30 a.m. After that, there is a procession of appointments, meetings, paper work, telephone calls and trips to Capitol Hill.

Stories saying that Shriver is smiling all the time are just not true, Miss Orlando says. "Of course he doesn't smile all the time. Anybody who does is an idiot. He gets tired and irritable just like anyone else."

But she adds that he does have an amazing ability to snap back when he is tired.

Central Ohio Tour Planned by Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Another "Wonderful World of Ohio" tour headed by Gov. James A. Rhodes is planned for Sept. 28-29 through central Ohio cities.

Rhodes and a busload of Ohio Historical Society officials are to visit Indian mounds, Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman's house in Lancaster, the Columbus Park of Roses and other points of interest.

It is part of a summer-long effort by the governor to stir up interest in Ohio tourism.

Poll Chieftain Shuns Bid by Educators

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Secretary of State Ted W. Brown says he cannot legally revise three million printed arguments against the proposal to raise retail sales taxes to provide funds for schools.

He denied a request by the Ohio Council for Education to alter the arguments against the proposed change in Ohio's constitution.

And, Brown added, any delay in printing and mailing both "pro and con" arguments to the voters might void the issue on the Nov. 2 election ballot.

James O. Brennen, administrative director of the Council for Education, which initiated the proposal, asked that this statement appear on printed arguments against the proposal:

"At the request of the authors, the names of the persons preparing this statement are withheld."

The argument against the proposal were drafted by Lauren A. Glosser of the Legislative Service Commission and William P. Lewis of the Legislative Reference Bureau. They asked that their names be omitted because their agencies took no stand on the issue.

The two were appointed by Gov. James A. Rhodes to draft opposition arguments, as required by law. Arguments for the proposal were prepared by a Council for Education committee.

Copies of both arguments will be mailed to Ohio households.

Rookie Helps Giants Laugh Way to Flag

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Linzy is a funny fellow. And he's helping the San Francisco Giants laugh all the way to the National League pennant.

The laconic rookie from Oklahoma with the snappy wit and the sinkerball to match proved again Wednesday night that he's one of the best relief pitchers in the business when he nailed down the Giants' 13th straight victory — a 3-2 squeaker over the Houston Astros.

Linzy replaced Bob Shaw in the eighth inning with one run in, one man on, none out and the score tied 2-2. He faced only five men, recorded six outs, and finished the night with his sixth victory in a row on Willie McCovey's game-winning single in the ninth.

Willie Mays played a key role — an inevitable development in the Giants' spectacular drive. The Wondrous One singled in the game's first run in the fourth and scored the winner in the ninth, racing to second when his sizzler down the first base line got through Walt Bond for an error, then coming in on McCovey's liner off Bond's glove.

The win kept San Francisco a comfortable 3½ games ahead in the race for the flag. The Cincinnati Reds took over second place, beating the New York Mets 2-1 behind Jim Maloney's pitching, while the Los Angeles Dodgers dropped to third with an 8-6 loss to the Chicago Cubs. Also in the NL — Milwaukee snapped its losing string at three games, downing Philadelphia 4-2 with the help of a throwing error by Bobby Wine; and Curt Flood rapped out five hits and drove in five runs as St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 7-3.

In the American League — Minnesota's first-place Twins made it seven straight, trimming Kansas City 7-5; Baltimore beat the Detroit Tigers 3-2; Cleveland scored an 8-4 victory over Boston; the New York Yankees defeated Washington 5-3; California and Chicago split, the White Sox winning 8-1 before the Angels took the nightcap 2-1 in 14 innings.

Maloney, bringing his record to 19-7, also singled in the deciding run against the Mets as the Reds scored both their runs in the second inning. Four straight singles got the job done — by Deron Johnson, Johnny Edwards, Ed Cardenas and Maloney. Ed Kranepool hit a homer for New York's run.

The Dodgers took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, but the Cubs drove Don Drysdale from the mound in the second inning when he was hit in the foot by a line drive off the bat of Ernie Banks. Then they made the most of their errors and singles by Harvey Kuen and pitcher Dick Ellsworth for three runs and a 5-3 lead in the fifth inning.

Tony Cloninger brought his record to 22-9 for the Braves, who scored three runs in the seventh inning. Two came in on Wine's throwing error and Hank Aaron doubled in the third. Wes Covington hit a homer for the Phillies.

Flood doubled in a run in the third inning for the Cardinals, singled home two more in the fourth, smacked a run-producing single in the sixth and singled home another run in a three-run ninth that nailed it against the pirates.

George Myatt, third base coach for the Philadelphia Phillies, batted .283 in 407 major league games between 1938 and 1947.

Walker Cuppers Slated For Cuts from Tourney

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Five of the eight members of the strong British Walker Cup team faced elimination going into the second round of the new-style National Amateur Golf Championship today, and their American counterparts were faring only a little better.

Two of the 10 American Walker Cuppers who came from behind to salvage a tie at Baltimore were almost certain of elimination when the bulky field is reduced to the low 60 and ties after the second of four 18-hole rounds. Three others are on shaky ground.

Jim Vickers, an oil company executive from Wichita, Kan., with a cross-handed putting grip and Jim Grant, a University of Houston student shared the lead with two under-par 69s after Wednesday's opening round in the first National Amateur at

Bowling Green Is Favored In Mid-Am

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Mid-American Conference's football coaches figure Bowling Green to repeat as champion this season.

A poll of the seven coaches showed five picking the Falcons to win the loop title again this season. Bowling Green received 28 of a possible 30 poll points.

Selection of the Falcons came as no surprise, since most of the players on last season's talented 9-1 squad are returning this year.

However, there was one surprise as Kent State was named runner-up with 12 poll points, including five points for one first place vote. The other vote for first went to Western Michigan, which placed fifth in the poll.

Miami was rated third with 11 points and Ohio University fourth with seven points. Neither Marshall nor Toledo received any points. Each coach made first, second and third place picks.

Nonleague openers are on tap this weekend, with Bowling Green at home against Los Angeles State, Ohio entertaining West Texas State, Miami at Purdue, Toledo at Villanova, Kent at Xavier, Louisville at Western Michigan, and Morehead State at Marshall.

Veteran Sports Writer Dies at 61

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. (AP) — Hugh S. Fullerton Jr., a sports writer for The Associated Press for 38 years, died Wednesday night at the age of 61. His death resulted from an embolism — an obstruction of a blood vessel.

Journalism was a tradition in Fullerton's family. His father was a famed Chicago sports writer who this year was honored by baseball's Hall of Fame. His son, Hugh Fullerton V, is a reporter for the Charlotte, N.C. News.

The Hall of Fame Fullerton, known as "Ching," was a native of Hillsboro, Ohio.

medal instead of match play.

None of the leaders — there were six to break par on the 6,917-yard Southern Hills Country Club course — had complaints about the new format or two experimental speed-up rules the U.S. Golf Association instituted for the tourney. But that's no upset. The leaders rarely complain.

And the British had no complaints about the wilting heat of the blazing Oklahoma sun that pushed temperatures to 98. And that's no upset, either. The stiff upper lip was stiff as ever.

"We've no complaints," said Joe Carr, three-time British Amateur champion and captain of their Walker Cup team. "The heat didn't make that much difference. We're just not playing well at all."

Carr had an eagle on the back nine — just missing a double eagle — and still had a 77. With a score of about 153 probably necessary to make the cut, that put him in trouble, along with Rodney Foster and Peter Townsend, with 79s. Clive Clark, 78, and Ronnie Shade, 80. Gordon Cosh may make it with a first round 76. Mike Bonallack, the current British Amateur champ, led the foreign delegation with a 72.

American Walker Cuppers in jeopardy are Dave Eichelberger, Waco, Tex., 77, and Downey Gray, Pensacola, Fla., 81. Possibles at 76 are Ed Tutwiler, Indianapolis; Mark Hopkins, Texas City, Tex., and Dr. Ed Updegraff, Tucson, Ariz.

Tied at 70 were Deane Beman, the two-time champion from Bethesda, Md., and the favorite for this one, Walker Cupper Don Allen of Rochester, N.Y.; Tommy Barnes, 20-year-old university of Georgia student and Ray Terry, son of baseball Hall of Famer Bill Terry.

At even par 71 were Cesar Sonado, El Cajon, Calif.; Jim Tom Blair, St. Louis; Charles Lewis, Santee, Calif., and Bob Dickson, Muskogee, Okla.

Defending champion Bill Campbell, Huntington, W.Va., had a creditable 73.

9 Ohio Golfers Vie in Tourney

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Darkness fell before Joe Miller Jr. of Hamilton, Ohio, and Bob Stroope of Houston, Tex., were able to finish the first round of the National Amateur Golf Championship Wednesday.

They were caught with the 18th hole to play and were to finish today.

Seven other Ohioans playing in the Amateur and their first-round scores were: Bob Littler Jr., Athens, 37-37-74; Dan Carmichael, Columbus, 39-38 — 77; Jeffrey Parry, Zanesville, 40-38-78; Anthony Blom Jr., Cincinnati, 40-40-80; Bruce Rotte, Cincinnati, 38 - 42-80; Richard Guardiola, Shaker Heights, 41-40-81; Ed Meister Jr., Willoughby, 40-42-82.

Circleville, Teays Valley Renew Grid Rivalry Friday

Circleville and Teays Valley meet tomorrow night on the Viking gridiron in the third game of an intense rivalry between the two schools.

The rivalry extends into the basketball season where the Vikings have won all the games.

But in football, the Tigers have dominated the series, winning both previous outings by large margins.

In 1963, the first year the two gridiron teams met, Circleville romped to a 41-0 victory at Teays Valley.

LAST YEAR, the Vikings were on the Red and Black gridiron, where they were handed a 34-0 defeat. Also in that game, Teays Valley lost a pair of grid-der through injuries.

This year, Marion Waits, the Viking grid tutor, reports he has a "little more depth than in the past".

A junior high football program initiated in the Teays Valley district two years ago is beginning to pay dividends on a high school level with increased interest and participation in the fall sport, Waits feels.

The three junior high schools, Scioto, Walnut and Ashville, all have football teams.

Missing from the Viking squad this year is Dave Roese, currently attending Bowling Green State University where he is a candidate for the freshman football team.

Roese played linebacker and at fullback for the Vikings.

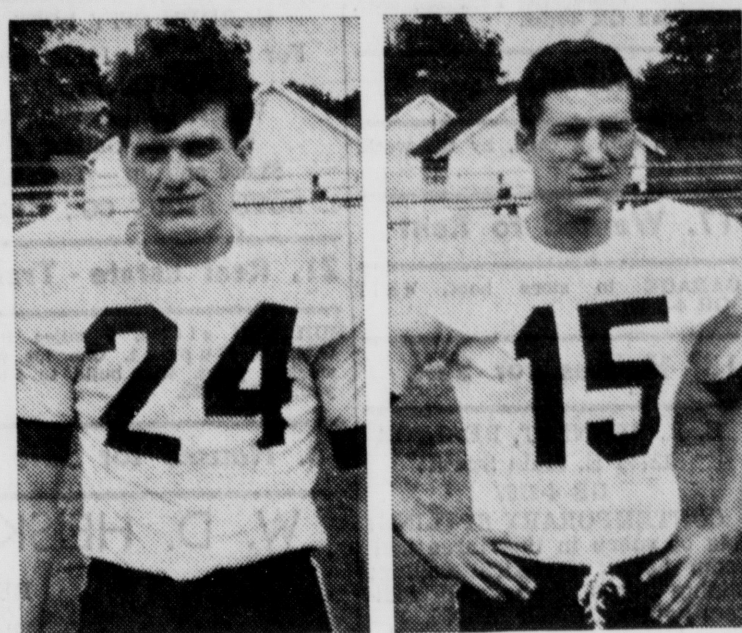

THIS year, Bruce Roese, a brother of Dave, is returning at quarterback where he lettered last year as a freshman.

John Smith runs from the fullback slot. Richard Hay, Gerald Green, Jack Moats and Tim Wells give the Waits-coached team a well balanced backfield.

In the opening tilt, Hay was the leading groundgainer for Teays Valley, carrying the pigskin for 62 yards. In addition, Hay was on the receiving end of a Roese pass that was good for 58 yards and a touchdown.

The pass was one of five attempted by the youthful quarterback. Three of them has had for several years.

One on the biggest problems facing Paul Starr and his staff of associates each week is selecting a starting team for the game.

A capacity plus crowd is expected tomorrow at the Teays Valley football stadium.

On defense, Green and Hay play the safety spots. Both were credited with key pass interceptions against Walnut Ridge. Lombardo also came up with a key interception in that tilt.

More Police Protection Needed at Football Games

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More police protection and local supervision probably is the best answer to youthful rowdism which could jeopardize night high school football games in Ohio, the state high school athletic commissioner said today.

Commissioner Paul E. Landis said he favored that approach over such drastic action as that of the Toledo city school board, which banned night games two years ago and now allows them only on Saturday mornings or afternoons.

The commissioner referred to incidents of the first football weekend last week in which police cracked down swiftly on the stoning of a Columbus football bus and the wounding of a 17-year-old Hamilton player following games. In another incident, stoned a car after a Warren Harding High School game in Warren.

Landis emphasized that such problems are local and not at the state level but added: "I liked the way these incidents were handled and the stern warnings that they were not going to be allowed."

Columbus police promised severe steps to prevent outbursts such as the one in which a Columbus Watters bus was stoned after its team defeated Columbus South 52-8. One youth was injured.

Police in Hamilton moved in quickly to arrest a youth who admitted he fired a birdshot blast that wounded Ronnie Sutton, 17-year-old Hamilton Garfield co-captain, in the leg. Ten students were cited and ordered to appear in juvenile court.

Police in Columbus attributed the disturbances to "dropouts and hoodlums," not the students, and announced intentions not to let them succeed in ending night football.

Hamilton School Supt. Lester L. Dickey and local police worked out a plan to help prevent rowdism. "We felt we ought to control the games rather than give them to a small group of troublemakers," Dickey said.

Their plan includes stepped up police patrols, making certain streets "off limits" to students after games, and asking teachers to ride with patrolmen to help identify any student causing a disturbance.

Toledo School Supt. Frank Dick declined to comment on the city's night game ban except to say, "It is the adopted policy of the board of education and it will remain in effect this season."

But other spokesmen said attendance at games of the 10 City League teams "has dropped terrifically" and predicted the ban will be lifted.

Some candidates for the Toledo School Board are promising restoration of night games as part of their campaign.

Rookie Helps Giants Laugh Way to Flag

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Linzy is a funny fellow. And he's helping the San Francisco Giants laugh all the way to the National League pennant.

The laconic rookie from Oklahoma with the snappy wit and the sinkerball to match proved again Wednesday night that he's one of the best relief pitchers in the business when he nailed down the Giants' 13th straight victory — a 3-2 squeaker over the Houston Astros.

Linzy replaced Bob Shaw in the eighth inning with one run in, one man on, none out and the score tied 2-2. He faced only five men, recorded six outs, and finished the night with his sixth victory in a row on Willie McCovey's game-winning single in the ninth.

Willie Mays played a key role — an inevitable development in the Giants' spectacular drive. The Wondrous One singled in the game's first run in the fourth and scored the winner in the ninth, racing to second when his sizzler down the first base line got through Walt Bond for an error, then coming in on McCovey's liner off Bond's glove.

The win kept San Francisco a comfortable 3½ games ahead in the race for the flag. The Cincinnati Reds took over second place, beating the New York Mets 2-1 behind Jim Maloney's pitching, while the Los Angeles Dodgers dropped to third with an 8-6 loss to the Chicago Cubs.

Also in the NL — Milwaukee snapped its losing string at three games, downing Philadelphia 4-2 with the help of a throwing error by Bobby Wine; and Curt Flood rapped out five hits and drove in five runs as St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 7-3.

In the American League — Minnesota's first-place Twins made it seven straight, trimming Kansas City 7-5; Baltimore beat the Detroit Tigers 3-2; Cleveland scored an 8-4 victory over Boston; the New York Yankees defeated Washington 5-3; California and Chicago split, the White Sox winning 8-1 before the Angels took the nightcap 2-1 in 14 innings.

Maloney, bringing his record to 19-7, also singled in the deciding run against the Mets as the Reds scored both their runs in the second inning. Four straight singles got the job done — by Deron Johnson, Johnny Edwards, Lo Cardenas and Maloney. Ed Kranepool hit a homer for New York's run.

The Dodgers took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, but the Cubs drove Don Drysdale from the mound in the second inning when he was hit in the foot by a line drive off the bat of Ernie Banks. Then they made the most of their errors and singles by Harvey Kuen and pitcher Dick Ellsworth for three runs and a 5-3 lead in the fifth inning.

Tony Cloninger brought his record to 22-9 for the Braves, who scored three runs in the seventh inning. Two came in on Wine's throwing error and Hank Aaron doubled in the third. Wes Covington hit a homer for the Phillies.

Flood doubled in a run in the third inning for the Cardinals, singled home two more in the fourth, smacked a run-producing single in the sixth and singled home another run in a three-run ninth that nailed it against the pirates.

George Myatt, third base coach for the Philadelphia Phillies, battled 283 in 407 major league games between 1938 and 1947.

Notre Dame '11' May Be Hurting

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's Fighting Irish who passed their way back to football heights in 1964, must try to stay there by "foot" this season.

With the dazzling aerial combination of John Huarte and Jack Snow, Ara Parseghian's hope for a successful encore to his stunning Irish debut rests on a powerful running attack and strong kicking game.

The Irish open Saturday at the University of California without a firmly entrenched quarterback, much less a passer even faintly resembling Huarte. "Our strong points are our defense, running game and kicking game," said Parseghian, at the same time rueing the fact last season's Irish surge to a 9-1 record "now makes us the target—the hunted instead of the hunter, as we were after Notre Dame's 2-7 finish in 1963."

The Irish ball-carrying pair of Bill Wolski and Nick Eddy may be the best one-two half-back punch in college football, backed up by fullback Larry Conjar, firebrand surprise of spring practice.

Running also is the forte of the trio scrapping for Huarte's senior Bill Zloch, who called signals five minutes last season, and sophomores Tom Schoen and John Pergine.

"Zloch has the edge and probably will continue to have the edge—he's more than adequate as a field general—but any of the three quarterback candidates has to be rated first as a runner, then as a ball handler and finally as a passer," said Parseghian.

Strong place kickers Joe Azar, Jim Ryan and Ken Ivan and punting specialist Dan McGinn are important in Irish strategy.

For the California opener, place-kicking star Azar—injured in practice—will be replaced by Ryan or Ivan on kick-offs, field goals and extra points.

Defensively, Notre Dame is not as experienced as Parseghian had hoped.

"We switched two good men, end Don Gmitter and Tom Regner, a 245-pounder, from defense to offense, and now our bit defensive tackle, Keven Hardy (270) has a bad back," said Parseghian.

But the Irish defense still has 230-pound Alan Page, linebacker Jim Lynch and deep backs Tom Longo, Tony Carey and Nick Rassas from the unit ranked the nation's second best in 1964.

Other veterans on offense include Capt. Phil Sheridan at end, tackle Bob Meeker (235) at tackle, and guard Dick Arrington (232).

Offensive tackle Rudy Konieczny (235) and linebacks Mike McGill and Dave Martin are three expected sophomore starters.

Views on Television — Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The television tempo quickened Wednesday night with the addition of a couple of rip-roaring action shows, two comedies that promise to provide a occasional chuckle, and a science-fiction hour that may delight the younger audience.

The action shows are ABC's "The Big Valley" and CBS' "I Spy," and you could hardly ask for greater diversity.

"The Big Valley" is a Western, family style like "Bonanza," but in its first outing suggested that its story lines promise to be made of sterner stuff.

The Barkleys of old California consist of a widowed mother, a brave pioneer type, with three handsome sons who don't seem to like each other much except when the chips are down, and a pretty daughter who appears to be something of a problem.

"I Spy" is one of those currently popular secret agent things, set in modern Hong Kong. Costars are Robert Culp and Bill Cosby—TV's first Negro to be cast in a stellar role in a series.

The first show was a fast-moving, slick production about a Negro athlete who had defected to Peking. Our heroes' job was to rescue him. This involved some fancy gun play, vicious fights and a particularly fascinating chase.

On the comedy front was CBS' "Green Acres" which takes a terribly smooth Manhattan lawyer and his completely urbanized wife and deposits them in a crumbling farmhouse that looks like the shack abandoned by the "Beverly Hillbillies."

Eva Gabor — in lovely clothes — and Eddie Albert play the city slicker couple. They had some pretty amusing lines in the opening show which was primarily occupied with getting them out of a Park Avenue apartment furnished in appallingly bad taste and down on the farm.

"Gidget" on ABC will undoubtedly be enjoyed by the people who made "Gidget" movies box office successes — teen-agers and parents who want to understand teen-agers. A cute youngster named Sally Field plays the title role and Don Porter, once Ann Sothern's boss, is her widowed father.

"Lost in Space" on CBS is a companion piece to ABC's "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea," and the first episode was dedicated to shipping a family in the year 1997 to a planet five and one-half years of spaceship travel away.

The special effects of the show were most interesting — tubes in which to freeze passengers for the trip, flashing lights and a spaceship that looks like a flying saucer.

The plot includes an evil agent of a foreign power who wants to wreck the voyage, but the series contains something really new in villains — a robot computer that has been programmed to destroy the spacecraft. He did a lot of damage before his power pack was removed, and may turn out to be one of the stars of the show.

Multilingual Camp Ends Fifth Year of Operation

FREEDOM, N.H. (AP) — Inez Eaglesfield has returned to her reservation home on the Dakota plains. Eva Wolgers is back in Stockholm, Sweden. Molly Luethi is roaming the Alpine fields around Goldern, Switzerland. Denise Bruton is back in Washington.

The rambling old farmhouse where they and 28 other children spent the summer is deserted.

When next summer arrives, the house again will run with the multilingual cries of children at play. And Freedom's International Camp will begin its sixth year of striving for "peace through understanding."

"We try to get children of as many different nationalities as we can," said Jurg Papritz, a Swiss teacher who heads the camp. "This year, for example, we had 16."

The nonprofit camp is privately financed through tuitions, donations and fund raising project, but does not cater solely to a paying clientele.

Many of the youngsters come from the International Rescue Center in New York. Others are sent by local relief organizations.

While there, the children swim, study, play games much like children at any summer camp.

In 1949, a Wellesley college girl named Natalie Peterson, spending a year studying at Zurich University in Switzerland, was dismayed by the suspicion and hatred most of Europe felt toward the German people after World War II.

Three years later, with money provided by her family and friends, she established in Holland the first international camp.

She later married a Swiss named Armin Leuthi and brought her idea of international camps to the United States in 1959.

In 1960 the Luethis purchased an old farm homestead and converted it into a residence for up to 40 children and counselors during summer months.

Fulbright's. . . .

there were available reports on 58 trained Communists already on hand in Santo Domingo who could be expected to attempt to take over leadership in the revolt.

"The consensus at the meeting was that we couldn't afford to have another Cuba," he said. "Nobody disagreed to the plan to send troops."

Fulbright told the Senate "no American lives were lost in Santo Domingo until the Marines began exchanging fire with the rebels."

Of Communist involvement in the Dominican result, Fulbright said there is an important difference between Communist support and Communist control of a political movement.

"It is quite possible to compete with the Communists for influence in a reform movement rather than abandon it to them," he said.

Fulbright said that by its intervention the United States lent credence to the idea that it is the enemy of social revolution in Latin America "and that the only choice Latin Americans have is between communism and reaction."

Fulbright said he had not heard from Johnson after delivering his speech.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, asked for comment, said: "I have talked to a number of officials in government, career and otherwise, who simply do not believe the senator's conclusions are justified."

Moyers declined to say if Johnson was one of them.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he is in "complete accord" with Fulbright's views and called them "overdue, sound and wise."

Another committee member, Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said he heard nothing in hearings of the Foreign Relations Committee that he thought would justify Fulbright's conclusions. He said the chairman must be relying on "outside information."

Louisiana Sen. Russell B. Long, the assistant Democratic leader, said Fulbright was not speaking for the committee but for himself — a point the Arkansas senator already had made. Long said Johnson was "well advised" to send troops into Santo Domingo.

Long told the Senate that at the White House meeting no one, Fulbright included, raised a dissenting voice.

Smathers demanded to know: "What's wrong with trying to save a country from communism?"

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he agrees with Fulbright that there was "no major Communist threat" in Santo Domingo, although he said once a revolt starts "they swarm in like flies."

Mansfield said he thinks Fulbright is trying to post a warning signal against hasty action if a similar situation arises in some other Latin American nation. That was exactly what he was trying to do, Fulbright said, adding: "I think maybe they'll stop and think a bit before rushing into any more military interventions."

"The point I am trying to make," he said, "is that if we get into the position of intervening against social revolution in support of reactionary military regimes we will only be encouraging young Latin Americans to turn to communism as their only alternative."

Convict, 73, Denied Parole 16th Time

HUTTONSVILLE, W. Va. (AP) — William Hollie Griffith, the 73-year-old convict who has spent more than a half century behind bars, has again failed to make parole.

The West Virginia Board of Probation and Parole interviewed the former badman Wednesday for the 16th time and then turned down his plea for freedom. The board did not disclose its reasons for denying the parole.

Griffith was sentenced to life in prison in 1915 after killing a law officer during a gun battle. He escaped from the West Virginia penitentiary six years later and was convicted of killing two more men during three weeks of freedom.

Griffith was given two additional life sentences and spent next six years in solitary confinement. He then went to work in the prison tailor shop and accumulated more than $26,000 operating the shop.

Griffith felt he had a good chance for parole this year in view of a request by a group of West Virginia businessmen that he be released so he could establish a garment factory in one of the state's depressed areas.

Views on Television — Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The television tempo quickened Wednesday night with the addition of a couple of rip-roaring action shows, two comedies that promise to provide a occasional chuckle, and a science-fiction hour that may delight the younger audience.

The action shows are ABC's "The Big Valley" and CBS' "I Spy," and you could hardly ask for greater diversity.

"The Big Valley" is a Western, family style like "Bonanza," but in its first outing suggested that its story lines promise to be made of sterner stuff.

The Barkleys of old California consist of a widowed mother, a brave pioneer type, with three handsome sons who don't seem to like each other much except when the chips are down, and a pretty daughter who appears to be something of a problem.

"I Spy" is one of those currently popular secret agent things, set in modern Hong Kong. Costars are Robert Culp and Bill Cosby—TV's first Negro to be cast in a stellar role in a series.

The first show was a fast-moving, slick production about a Negro athlete who had defected to Peking. Our heroes' job was to rescue him. This involved some fancy gun play, vicious fights and a particularly fascinating chase.

On the comedy front was CBS' "Green Acres" which takes a terribly smooth Manhattan lawyer and his completely urbanized wife and deposits them in a crumbling farmhouse that looks like the shack abandoned by the "Beverly Hillbillies."

Eva Gabor — in lovely clothes — and Eddie Albert play the city slicker couple. They had some pretty amusing lines in the opening show which was primarily occupied with getting them out of a Park Avenue apartment furnished in appalling bad taste and down on the farm.

"Gidget" on ABC will undoubtedly be enjoyed by the people who made "Gidget" movies box office successes — teen-agers and parents who want to understand teen-agers. A cute youngster named Sally Field plays the title role and Don Porter, once Ann Sothern's boss, is her widowed father.

"Lost in Space" on CBS is a companion piece to ABC's "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea," and the first episode was dedicated to shipping a family in the year 1997 to a planet five and one-half years of spaceship travel away.

The special effects of the show were most interesting — tubes in which to freeze passengers for the trip, flashing lights and a spaceship that looks like a flying saucer.

The plot includes an evil agent of a foreign power who wants to wreck the voyage, but the series contains something really new in villains — a robot computer that has been programmed to destroy the spacecraft. He did a lot of damage before his power pack was removed, and may turn out to be one of the stars of the show.

Multilingual Camp Ends Fifth Year of Operation

FREEDOM, N.H. (AP) — Inez Eaglesfield has returned to her reservation home on the Dakota plains. Eva Wolgers is back in Stockholm, Sweden. Molly Luethi is roaming the Alpine fields around Goldern, Switzerland. Denise Bruton is back in Washington.

The rambling old farmhouse where they and 28 other children spent the summer is deserted.

When next summer arrives, the house again will run with the multilingual cries of children at play. And Freedom's International Camp will begin its sixth year of striving for "peace through understanding."

"We try to get children of as many different nationalities as we can," said Jurg Papritz, a Swiss teacher who heads the camp. "This year, for example, we had 16."

The nonprofit camp is privately financed through tuitions, donations and fund raising project, but does not cater solely to a paying clientele.

Many of the youngsters come from the International Rescue Center in New York. Others are sent by local relief organizations.

While there, the children swim, study, play games much like children at any summer camp.

In 1949, a Wellesley college girl named Natalie Peterson, spending a year studying at Zurich University in Switzerland, was dismayed by the suspicion and hatred most of Europe felt toward the German people after World War II.

Three years later, with money provided by her family and friends, she established in Holland the first international camp.

She later married a Swiss named Armin Leuthi and brought her idea of international camps to the United States in 1959.

In 1990 the Leuthis purchased an old farm homestead and converted it into a residence for up to 40 children and counselors during summer months.
